REFLECTIONS ON TODAY'S GOSPEL
GOSPEL: LUKE 6:39 - 45

"Each of you speak from your heart's abundance."

Here are more parables about how the truth will sneak past our best intentions and present itself. If we do not see the way clearly, we cannot pretend to be guides for others. (Parents, teachers, pastors — and people who write Scripture commentary — beware!) In the end, what is within us will make itself known to all.

That is why it is one of our most urgent responsibilities to guard our hearts. We must guard against bitterness, hopelessness, needless anxiety, cynicism, unfocused rage, and unforgiveness. It is our primary duty as Christians to love well. We are mandated to love God and one other, and to work our way up to love of enemy and the really tricky ones. We need hearts that are pliable and love that is growing. We cannot afford to surrender to "heart disease" of any kind, those ways of thinking, living, and remembering that cause us to harden our hearts.

If we take care to allow only goodness into our hearts, we will have goodness to share. We speak what we know. We give who we are.

Questions for Reflection

What might people learn from a typical conversation with you?

Look around you with your eyes. Record what you see. Now look with your heart. What more do you see?

Take a quick tour through the contents of your heart today. What do you find?

Action Response

What do you read, watch on TV, listen to in music, take in from your relationships? Do you take in goodness, or husks that will emerge when you shake the sieve? Spend one day rejecting any influence that is not good for your heart. Consider making this a lifestyle.

The Discovery Project

In last week's Catholic Herald, there was an article about the Discovery Project. The Discovery Project combines on-line instruction and face-to-face workshops for Archdiocesan students in grades 7 and 8 who are academically gifted.

In order to apply for the program, a student must be in the 95% in Language Arts or Reading on a standardized achievement test; have an A level performance in English, Language Arts and Reading/Literature and be recommended by the language arts teacher.

We at Our Lady Queen of Peace School are very proud to report that two of our students were accepted into the Discovery Project. Connor O'Neill, a 7th grader, was assigned during the 2nd quarter, the "American Voices, American Dreams?" course which was instructed by Mr. Loucks from Divine Savior Holy Angeles. As part of his coursework, Connor read The Great Gatsby by F. Scott Fitzgerald and Death of a Salesman by Arthur Miller.

During the 4th quarter, Halsey Smith, an 8th grader, has been assigned "The Environmental Writing in American Literature" course instructed by Mr. Tomsey From Dominican High School. As part of her coursework, Halsey will read, A Sand County Almanac: and Sketches Here and There by Aldo Leopold.

Congratulations to Connor and Halsey for being accepted into this program!

Pitchers and catchers have reported and officially spring training begins later this week. Baseball season is just around the corner which means that Kenosha resident Dean Rosko is also gearing up for the start of another season at Miller Park. Rosko, the youngest organist in professional baseball, accompanies the Brewers at 70 to 80 home games each April through September. When not at the ballpark, he can be heard at St. Raphael the Archangel Catholic Church in Antioch, Illinois, playing the organ for Masses.
